

Session 7: Taking the Mystery Out of Retirement

Wednesday January 18 Noon Copper Lounge
Lunch will be available

Lyle Hansen, University of Idaho Extension
A Solid Finances webinar presentation sponsored by the Montana State University Extension Service

Participants will learn how to calculate the amount of income they will need to retire and determine additional savings needed for retirement. Participants will learn about their personal investing risk tolerance, the several investment choices for retirement, and several basic investing concepts. They will increase their awareness of dollar-cost averaging, allocating assets among several different types of investments and learn how to determine investment risk tolerance and the types of investments suitable for retirement. They will also learn how investment fees and expenses can affect returns.

Please RSVP to the calendar invitation from Carmen Nelson
